

Stake Fair Is a Great Exhibit

"Smaller Than the State Fair, but Better"

The Alpine Stake M. I. A. Fair is living up to its slogan, "Smaller Than the State Fair, but Better." Some parties who have just returned from the San Francisco exposition, and after visiting the M. I. A. Fair on its opening night, declare that the fruit exhibit was better both in quantity and quality than Utah's fruit exhibit in San Francisco.

Probably the chief feature in the fair is the ladies' exhibit, which is by far the most extensive ever shown in this country. The quality is also excellent and equal to that usually shown in the state fair. The Bee Hiv girls have the chief displays; nearly every swarm in the Stake having an exhibit; the swarms of each ward being grouped together. It will be a most difficult matter to determine the winner, so nearly equal are the several exhibits.

The awards have not been made, but will be announced today. The grand prize for the ward having the greatest number of exhibits will probably go to the Lehi First Ward, who have by far the biggest display, but some of the smaller wards may win out on a proportionate basis.

The work of the boys clubs is great. The contests are chiefly in sugar beets. There are fine samples of potatoes, corn, wheat, beets, carrots, cucumbers, cabbage and cauliflower.

John Hunter has a hill of Kentucky corn 12 feet high. The contests in fruit are largely in mammoth, well-colored Elberta peaches. The apples, pears, grapes and plums are also excellent. The Lehi Boys' Agricultural club has a most creditable exhibit, and the fruit exhibit by N. H. Heisel is worthy of mention. There is a big watermelon and some peanuts on vines by J. C. Orr of Highland. The Soudan grass by R. D. Wadley of Mantua, and John Woodhouse of Lehi, attracts much attention.

The boys' pig contest is a great success; also the poultry, both by the boys' clubs.

Probably the greatest curiosity is the live porcupine. The cabinet of curiosities by Maria Hanson will probably take the prize.

A feature of the fair is the vocational and industries section which is largely educational. The industries featured are: Printing, by the Alpine Pub. Co.; sugar making, by the Utah Idaho Sugar Co.; flour making, by the Lehi Roller Mills; baking, by the American Fork Bakery; diversified farming, clay products, by Utah Fire Clay Co.; fruit growing, by R. D. Wadley; wool and sheep industry and dry farming. These were arranged to suggest the different stages and processes of each industry.

The refreshment committee sells confectionery and is doing a good business in "hot dogs" and meat pies.

The entertainment committee is giving some good shows, and will close tonight with a vaudeville by some Salt Lake people. The baby show, which closes tonight, is also expected to create much interest. Altogether, Mr. Banks, Mrs. Stooker and their able corps of assistants are to be highly commended for their sacrificing work, which is educational and does much in developing the country. Some of the exhibits should go to the State Fair in Salt Lake.

a thought that takes color and form, a thought that lives and moves and has its being among the struggling mass of onward marching humanity, is the man who lives.

And if you will stop to consider, he is the man you read about.

Books are written about the achievements of men.

History is the record of deeds.

It is them on who fought and bled and died upon the battlefields of the nations of whom the historian writes and the poet sings.

We could present the case for the unsung hero, the man who struggles and fights and fails—but that story does not belong in this chapter. We are here dealing with the case for action—extolling action in the abstract. Action is life, and life is action.

Read your dusty old books if you will.

Dig, delve and dissect among the decomposing debris of the dead past, if you like, but do not forget that that past was what it was, or is what it, simply because at one time it existed as an active, living present.

If today would live tomorrow it must bequeath an act that has life.

Education, culture, refinement are hothouse plants that need to be transplanted out in the open field of life if they are to be of service to mankind.

If you stop to think you will find that your own unwritten thoughts are quite as interesting reading as are the thoughts you find in books.

You pay a man the extreme of compliment and homage when you spend hours or probably days cultivating the acquaintance of his mind as it expresses itself through the printed pages of his books.

Did you ever stop to think that it would pay you to cultivate the acquaintance of your own mind?

Try it, as an experiment.

—Gunnar Bjornson, in Minneapolis Mascot.

BOOST!

Do you know there's lots of people sittin' round most every town growling like an ugly puppy. Knocking every good thing down. Don't be that kind of cattle. 'Cause they ain't no use on earth. But just be a booster rooster. Crow and boost for all your worth.

If your town needs boostin' boost her.

Don't look back and wait to see if some other fellow's willin'. Salt right in, this country's free. No one's got a mortgage on it. It's just yours as much as his. If your town is shy of boosters, You get in the boostin' biz. If things don't seem to suit you An the world seems kinder wrong, What's the matter with a boostin', Just to help the thing along? 'Cause if things should stop again, We'd be in a sorry plight, You just keep the horn a-blowin', Boost her up with all your might.

If you see some fellow tryin' For to make some project go, An' you can boost it up a trifle, That's your cue to let him know That you're not goin' to knock it. Just because it ain't your shout. But that you are going to boost a little 'Cause he is got the best thing out.

According to a story they are telling in New York the German Kaiser was complimenting a soldier named Elmsen, who had distinguished himself on the field of battle. "I am told," so the Kaiser is quoted as saying, that you are a very poor man and the only support of your aged parents. Because of your poverty you shall have your choice between taking the Iron Cross or a hundred marks." Your majesty," inquired the canny hero, "vat is the cross vorth in money?" "Not much," said the emperor; "It is the honor that makes it valuable. It is worth perhaps two marks." "Vell, den," said Private Elmsen, drawing himself up to his full height and saluting, "I will take the iron cross and ninety-eight marks in cash!"—San Francisco Argonaut.

BACK TO NATURE

A hen is not supposed to have much common sense or tact. But every time she lays an egg she cackles forth the fact.

A rooster is largely feathers, with little intellect to show. But none the less most roosters have enough good sense to crow.

The mule, the most despised of beasts, has a persistent way Of letting people know he's round, by his insistent bray.

The busy little bees they buzz, bulls bellow and cows moo, And watch dogs bark and ganders quack and doves and pigeons coo.

The peacock spreads his tail and squawks, pigs squeal and robins sing.

And even serpents know enough to hiss before they sting.

But man, the greatest masterpiece that nature could devise, Will often stop and hesitate before he'll ADVERTISE.
